

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The invention provides a solid polymer electrolyte membrane that has excellent methanol-crossover-suppression performance and a fuel cell that employs the electrolyte membrane. The electrolyte membrane comprises a matrix comprising a proton-conducting polymer such as perfluorocarbon sulfonic acid and a sheet substantially consisting of an inorganic fiber such as glass fiber.